1 Call Your Besties & Invite Them Along

Who would you invite to a dinner party or call when there is a sale at your favorite store? These are the first people you want to be calling!

"Hey friend, You've gotta hear what I'm doing. I was watching a friend on Facebook who was struggling with not feeling her best. You know the stuff we always seem to be talking about? Can I share my excitement and story with you about some great products I have been using? Perhaps we could do this together! I might even be able to teach you how to get your products paid for if it sounds like something you want to do."

Keeping track of your leads is important because people decide on their own time frame. It typically take 6 - 7 different conversations for someone to know enough to feel like they are making a good decision. So, you'll need patience and a way to track those conversations.

Use the Leads List located in your Virtual Office:

2 Post a Photo of Yourself on Social Media

Say something like this or something that sounds more authentic to how you talk and what's on your heart.

→ Post a Photo of Yourself on Social Media

Reach out to people that liked or commented on your post.

Ask Them

"What about the post spoke to you?"

Listen to their response.

Then Ask

"Do you have 3 - 5 minutes to watch a video?"

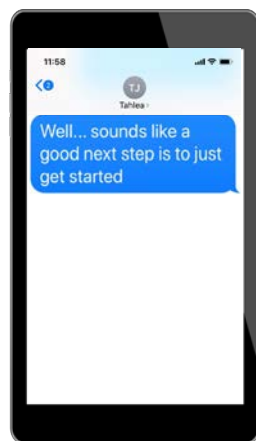

After They Watch, Ask

"What did you think about that?"

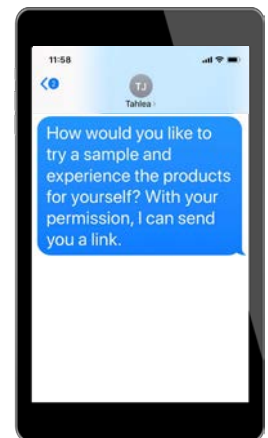

Share a video from your Virtual Office:
